“Running and operating a rapidly growing property management company can be time consuming. One way to ensure we are not jeopardizing any aspect of our business is putting an emphasis on partnering with a strong and competent legal team. For as long as I can remember, we have worked with Mark Murrah, Rick Killough and their associates on the management of our legal needs in Texas. Our partnership has allowed our company to focus our undivided attention on our tenants while feeling confident that our legal matters are being handled efficiently.”

“Time is money.” These simple words take on special significance in the real-estate investment world. Whether your business is a few rent houses or a multi-million dollar portfolio, consistent positive cash-flow from your properties is the life-blood of your business. Interruptions in that rental cash-flow can be a serious business problem.

In today’s increasingly-regulated real estate market, it’s important to have seasoned legal advisors who understand the unique legal needs of landlords and property owners.

Murrah & Killough, PLLC assists not only with the regulatory needs of a real estate investor, but also the practical business requirements of running a real estate investment company. Our proven methods help landlords to remove problem tenants effectively.
